STRING TIED TO RED DELEGATES

MOSCOW, Feb. 25.—In order to insure return to Russia of the delegation sent to Genoa, only those persons who have families or possessions that may be considered good hostages or guarantees will be allowed to go there. The soviet has had too many examples of its agents willing to work, but unwilling to return. Several government agents will accompany the delegation under the guise of secrétaries to insure the good conduct and return of the delegates.

The example of the death of M. Bravin by assassination in Afhangastan last summer is held as a warning to slackers, that the strictest discipline will be upheld and that its arm is lons. Bravin, a bolshevik leader, went there as ambassador with two million gold rubles, but declined to return when ordered. It was believed that he had entered into close relations with British agents, or that he tions with British agents, or that he wished to keep a part of the gold,
